

Good Morning to My Artist Friends!

Well, the days seem to be going by quickly and I have just finished the November series of my online classes. Thank you for your kind reviews here are just a few...

- I have learned a lot from the classes - my notebook is overwhelming with possibilities! You give 110%
- The silver lining of Covid is that you are teaching online! I love it!
- Thanks for being such a generous and excellent teacher!
- Access to these new home-based classes is my wish come true! You come so prepared.
- I gained a whole new way of thinking.
- I appreciate all that you do for us to become better watercolor painters!
- I'm excited about the possibilities before me!
- AMAZING JOB of reaching out across the virtual medium..... what you are doing is light years ahead!
- You pack so much wonderful material in each session.

While still sheltering in place, my "Online Classes" for December, January, are ready to go! So... get comfortable, get out your paints and together, let's visit more of the individual topics that will certainly bring much success to you on your watercolor painting journey. These individual "Specialty Technique" classes provide an in-depth approach to each topic. By understanding and PRACTICING each of these various topics, you will see the many new ways and ideas to make your

'The Magic of Leaving White Paper'

A very important part of watercolor is the use of leaving white paper. Learn four great things that can be done with leaving white paper; how it gives the painting a clean, crisp elegance; helps to show depth, emphasizes the sun light and gives a better feel for the shadows. You will see how to paint several examples that will show you the importance of emphasizing layers, highlights and sun lightened shadows.

' Trees, Rocks & Water'

Do you need to expand your skills in these areas?

Tom will paint several examples of each of these items. Learn that capturing the impression of each subjects' texture, pattern & depth is more important than detail

Friday January 15, 2021

' Skies, Clouds & Sunsets'

This class will give you a vast amount of information on how you will paint skies and choose clouds that will unify your landscape. No longer will the sky be an "add-on".

You will paint several different skies and clouds from early morning sunrises to dramatic, colorful sunsets.

Skies now will become your 'featured specialty'!

Monday, January 18, 2021

' How to Paint Loose & Free'

Learn to paint loose and capture the 'essence' of the subject. These lessons are great for those who want only to paint this way or at least use this technique to start a painting.

You will get step-by-step instruction and come away with many color examples that will you a lifetime!

ALL CLASSES will be held from 11:00-2:00 PM CST.

Thursday, January 21, 2021

'Using 'ART WORDS' Wisely'

A most important lesson that you will ever learn is how to have an 'art word' in mind while painting. Discovering what you 'think about' while you paint is the secret to success.

Tom will teach you how to SEE, THINK and PAINT like artist. When you finish this class, the world around you will not be a series of objects but rather artist triggers or 'art words'

You will look, photograph, paint and 'think' much differently after this important class.
